Adopts Stern Attitude Toward Seizure of American Properties in Mexico

"PROMPT SETTLEMENT"

Note Invokes The Inter-American Treaty of Arbitration

By Robert G. Nixon
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 22—(INS)—The United States today adopted a strong attitude toward Mexico's seizure of American properties and demanded "prompt and just compensation."

In an indirect approach to the question of Mexico's seizure of $250,000,000 in American oil lands, Secretary of State Cordell Hull delivered a lengthy note to Mexican Ambassador Francisco Castillo Najera, asking settlement of the question of expropriation of agrarian lands.

The note invoked the Inter-American treaty of arbitration, signed in Washington in January, 1929. Hull proposed that the matter of payment for the expropriated lands be submitted to a board of arbitration composed of impartial representatives from the various American republics.

"The whole structure of friendly intercourse, of international trade and commerce, and many other vital and mutually desirable relations between nations indispensable to their progress rests upon the single and hitherto solid foundation or respect on the part of governments and of peoples for each other's rights under international justice," Hull reminded the Mexican government.

"The right of prompt and just compensation for expropriated property is a part of this structure."

KAI-SHEK RESTORES THE CHRISTIAN TEACHING

Restoration Made In The Mission Schools Throughout China

REALIZE THE NEED

PEKING, July 22—(INS)—A regulation of some years standing against the teaching of Christianity in American, British and European schools in China was dramatically rescinded by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The announcement came unexpectedly and was made by Madame Chiang Kai-shek at a gathering of 150 American-British mission workers.

According to Madame Chiang, the historical and far-reaching decision was made out of deference to those American, British and European missionaries who "so loyally stood their ground despite threats and occasional abuse by Japanese troops."

"Many of the missionaries," she continued, "not only risked their lives in areas under fire, caring for the needs of the wounded, but took in destitute refugees to shelter and feed, and saved many Chinese women from a fate worse than death."

In a glowing tribute to the work of foreign missionaries in China, Madame Chiang recalled the numerous instances of heroic devotion encountered by herself and the Generalissimo during the visit to the front lines. At that time Madame Chiang stated she inspected many mission hospitals filled with Chinese wounded.

Explaining that the invaluable work of these missionaries did not pass unnoticed, Madame Chiang stated she

Unidentified Swimmers Rescue A Croydon Man

A Croydon young man, Joseph Hayworth, 23, had a narrow escape from drowning in the Delaware River, here, yesterday afternoon.

Hayworth became exhausted while swimming near the Knights of Columbus home, it is said, and two unidentified men went to his rescue.

The young man was swimming about 100 yards off shore when two young men who were with him, and who had started for the bank, noticed Hayworth's plight.

The two went to the Croydonite's aid, and against a strong tide managed to get him safely to shore. Hayworth had already sunk beneath the waters.

Hayworth was unconscious, but was soon revived.

A call had been sent to the Bristol Consolidated Fire Department for a pumpboat, but it was not required that it be put in service.

ETHEL BARRYMORE COLT TO HEAD THE JITNEY PLAYERS AT NEW HOPE; PRESENTATION TOMORROW WILL BE "DIPLOMACY;" ON ONE-NIGHT STANDS

Young Actress Claims It Is More Fun Riding Around in Station Wagon and Playing One-Night Stand, Than Wearing An Ermine Coat—Love of The Road Is In Her Veins

NEW HOPE, July 22—With Ethel Barrymore Colt at their head, the famous Jitney Players will appear at Phillips Mill, near here, on the next three Saturday evenings. The production for tomorrow is to be "Diplomacy," and the hour is 8:45.

The play has been made as modern as tomorrow's headline news because Miss Ethel Barrymore Colt has based her version on contemporary war-time Europe. The Colt-Sardou drama, which hinges around a young romantic couple whose marriage is almost shattered by the spy ring which has encircled them, will be presented as an encore offering. It was given during the winter when the Jitney troupe visited Bucks county for the first time.

"Diplomacy" was a great favorite with American audiences as played by Maurice Barrymore, grandfather of Miss Colt, who in addition to making the present adaption, will enact a leading role with the Jitney Players. Also in the cast are Bettina Cerf, Douglas Rowland, Elizabeth Timberman, Harry Gresham, Tom Gorman, Reed McClelland and Penn Harrison. Robert K. Adams has staged the play. Kiwanian Frank Reynolds was appointed chairman of a special committee to plan for a ladies' night picnic and swimming party to be held on Tuesday, August 9th.

Announcement was made that following next week's dinner meeting on July 26, there will be a baseball game in which members of the club will participate. The game will be played at Community Park the two teams being Frank Worthington's Ice Age Terriers and Cliff Beck's Roaming Night Walkers.

Catapult Seaplane Wings Its Way Toward America

NEW YORK, July 22—(INS)—The 1938 season for experimental flights over the broad Atlantic is underway.

Today winging towards Pan-American Airway's Port Washington, L. I., base was Germany's catapult seaplane Nordmeer, flying from the Azores. At Port Washington it joins Great Britain's "pick-a-back" seaplane Mercury which landed safely yesterday afternoon after an uneventful 3,042-mile trip from Foynes, Ireland, in 82 hours, 28 minutes.

The German Nordmeer took off from its "mother" ship Schwabenland at 4 p. m. yesterday with Capt. Joachim H. Blankenburg in command of a crew consisting of co-pilot Otto Brix, flight mechanic Alfred Eger, and radio operator Wilhelm Kneppers.

The Mercury, also launched from a "mother ship" made one refueling stop—at Montreal—before Capt. Donald C. T. Bennett brought it to a gentle landing here. Radio operator Albert J. Coster was the only other person aboard on the trans-Atlantic hop, an experimental flight prior to establishment of regular commercial traffic next year.

Catapult Plane Arrives

New York, July 22—Marking the second successful completion of an experimental transoceanic flight, Germany's catapult seaplane, Nordmeer, landed off Port Washington, L. I., at 9:43 a. m. e. d. t., today.

The Nordmeer made the hop in routine, practical fashion. It took off from the Azores at 4 p. m. e. d. t., yesterday, and completed the crossing in 17 hours, 43 minutes.

At Port Washington, the flying boat was first near Great Britain's "pick-a-back" seaplane, the Mercury, which likewise made a safe landing yesterday after flying the 3,043 mile distance from Foynes, Ireland, in 22 hours, 28 minutes.

Two Trapped in Silver Mine

Duncan, Ariz., July 22—Two rescue workers toiled desperately today to reach five men who were trapped alive in a silver mine in an isolated section ten miles west of here.

The rescue workers, encouraged by the knowledge that the trapped miners were uninjured, were drilling within 30 feet of the spot where the men were imprisoned by tons of dirt in the main shaft.

Shouted words of encouragement came from behind the prison wall, for the entombed men were able to communicate with the crew that worked closer to them.

Resignations May Be Sequel To Diplomatic Negotiations

Paris, July 22—Resignation of several figures in the French and Czechoslovakian governments may be the sequel to feverish diplomatic negotiations regarding the Sudetan German question which preceded the visit here of King George and Queen Elizabeth of England, it was learned today.

As the result of British and French pressure, the Czech government will be compelled to submit a nationality statute to Nazi agents of the Sudetans before it is presented to Parliament. Prague previously had turned down all suggestions to this effect as incompatible with the honor of the government. Such action now is expected to force a number of official retirements, possibly including that of President Edouard Benes of Czechoslovakia.

START ERECTION OF BLOOMING GLEN CHURCH

Doylestown Contractor is Successful Bidder; Price is $26,778

MEMBERS DO DIGGING

BLOOMING GLEN, July 22—Contracts have been let for the new church of the Menonite congregation here, and work was commenced yesterday.

The successful bidder is David D. Nyce, Doylestown contractor, whose bid was $26,778.

Under specifications, Nyce is permitted to take as much of the material from the old structure as he can use in the new building.

Digging of the foundation for the new church which will be erected near the site of the old structure which was razed by the members of the congregation a few weeks ago has been completed by the members, and Mr. Nyce began work on the foundation walls yesterday.

The building will be erected of brick and it will have a seating capacity for about 1000 persons. It has been stipulated in the contract that the work is to be completed by November 15th.

Building of a new church at this place has been under consideration for some time because of the increased church and Sunday school enrollment. It had been suggested that an addition be erected to the old building, but a vote on the project was taken some weeks ago and it was decided to build a new structure.

A short time after it was agreed to build another church a large number of the members began razing the old structure and this was completed in about two days, and a few days ago the members finished the digging of the foundation.

22ND WARD REPUBLICANS PICNIC AT EDDINGTON

U. S. Senator J. J. Davis, and Samuel S. Lewis Are Among the Guests

1500 ATTEND FUNCTION

EDDINGTON, July 22—Fifteen hundred people were attracted to the Turners Country Club, yesterday, for the annual outing of the 22nd Ward Republican Club of Philadelphia.

Many prominent figures were present for the affair, and delivered informal talks during the dinner hour in the club house last evening. Among the guests of honor were: United States Senator James J. Davis; Samuel S. Lewis, York, candidate for lieutenant governor; James F. Torrance, Pennsylvania state Republican chairman.

Also present for the function were many well-known Republicans from Philadelphia.

The annual outing, and dinner program, was arranged by David E. Watson, leader of the 22nd ward. Mr. Watson was assisted in his plans by an able committee composed of club members.

The events started at one o'clock, with 500 partaking of luncheon.

Throughout the afternoon the crowd swelled, with 1,000 additional gathering from many counties.

At the dinner last evening covers were placed for 1000.

Water and field sports were the order of the day, with many contests in the numerous races.

Crops Greatly Damaged By The Recurrent Rains

Recurrence of heavy rains throughout the night, after attempts at clear weather yesterday afternoon, swelled some small streams of the area considerably.

The waters of the Delaware River however, were reported at normal this morning, there being a drop of from about 14 inches since yesterday, when the highest level was noted on the gauges at the Bristol water works.

Magnolia Road was under approximately 15 to 18 inches of water this morning, and caused consternation for motorists.

The continuous stormy weather, with heavy rains, and occasional electric disturbances, are attributed to what weather officials term a "Bernuda Blockade," a condition which is keeping the rain clouds over New Jersey and other coast states.

Crops of Bucks and Montgomery county are in serious danger of rain damage. Losses have already been incurred because of the weather, and unless the rain ceases falling shortly, there will be heavy damage, it is claimed.

Wheat is hit the hardest on most farms. As much as is standing has been beaten down to a great extent, and what is shocked and lying on the ground is just as hard hit. Continued rain and warm weather causes the grain to sprout, and when this condition sets in it is useless for anything other than feed.

Oats, most of which are still standing in the county as a whole, are also beaten down, and the grains on the ground, rotting. A good part of the crop can be saved by an immediate let-up, but chances are poor, in the opinion of most farmers.

There will be some damage to potatoes, but this will be comparatively slight. Early potatoes are now mature, and any of these planted in badly drained fields will probably start to rot within a day or two, if they have not already begun to go bad.

The corn in most localities is "taking it," although weeds will flourish in the rows while the farmers cannot get out on the ground. In some places, where the rainfall has been particularly violent at times, corn was hit by soil erosion, when the hills were washed away.

POINTS OUT URGENT NEED FOR ZONING OF BUCKS COUNTY

Mrs. Martha Wooley, Lahaska Broker, Speaks To Local Rotarians

PROTECTS PROPERTY

Zoning Also Will Care For Stream Pollution, Soil Erosion, Etc.

Because of inclement weather the regular weekly meeting of the Bristol Rotary Club, scheduled for the lawn at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. Doyle Webb, was held in the basement of the Presbyterian Church, Radcliffe street. Lester D. Thorne, president, was in charge of the meeting which was very well attended.

All members were deeply interested in the talk given by Mrs. Martha Wooley, Lahaska real estate broker, who talked on Bucks County zoning. Mrs. Wooley, who is chairman of the public utility committee of the Bucks County Real Estate Board, and chairman of the committee which recently interviewed the Bucks County Commissioners about the planning and zoning of Bucks County, was introduced to the Rotarians by Jesse C. Ebert, Hulmeville.

Mrs. Wooley pointed out to the Rotarians the urgent need of zoning and planning and the importance of it to the Rotarians and all other clubs and organizations of backing this movement.

"Zoning and planning does not only mean protection of property in the county," the speaker stated, "but it would also take care of stream pollution, soil erosion, and preservation of all streams in the County."

"It is necessary to zone on a broad basis and immediate action and nothing else will stop the devastation which is already going on in many parts of Bucks County."

"This is particularly true in the Neshaminy section below Doylestown which needs zoning very badly, with the influx of the Summer colonists. It will prevent improper and undesirable future building."

The speaker pointed out that if we allow our scenery to be destroyed we are simply killing the goose that laid the golden egg.

The benefits of zoning will also aid the farmers in the county, it was pointed out. The speaker also stated that such a movement will not prevent industrial expansion, because there are many factories here already and the placement of future plants will be in the section that will be set aside for them.

Mrs. Wooley told the members of a committee of 76 which will be formed and known as the County Committee. This Committee will work for the zoning and planning in the County. The members of this committee represent various organizations throughout the County. The speaker asked that a committee of two members of the Bristol Rotary Club be appointed to serve on this committee of 76. Action on this will be taken at a later meeting by the local Rotarians.

At the conclusion of her address Mrs. Wooley answered questions and also announced a mass meeting to be held in the New Hope high school, probably in the second week of August, when the speakers will include the state engineer and others of prominence.

The Rotary meeting next week will be held on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Runyan, Radcliffe street.

Corrigan Has Tossed Away $240,000 in Four Days

By H. R. Knickerbocker

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1938)

DUBLIN, July 22—(INS)—Douglas Corrigan has tossed away $60,000 a day for the last four days, and today he was proud, in a quiet way, that he has not accepted a nickel of the quarter million dollars offered him since he landed from New York.

Maybe one of the reasons why the young flyer is turning down scores of offers is that matrimony, equally with money, has no place in his design for living.

Corrigan told me he has no girl, never had a girl, and never intends to have a girl.

"Why?" I asked him. "Because I never take a chance—I never gamble," he said with the same Irish humor that still enables him to assert that he flew the Atlantic by mistake.

This brought an explosion of laughter from the diplomats around the hearth of United States minister John Cudahy in Phoenix Park, where the erstwhile airplane mechanic occupies the seat of honor as the most distinguished guest who has come to the legation since Charles A. Lindbergh visited Dublin.

SEVEN TIMES LOSER

Man's confidence in his own superiority over all others in the natural kingdom never quite becomes overweening. However exultant he may be in the perfection of new devices and in prying the doors which hide nature's secrets, he is brought up short on occasion, timely and often enough to hold him to a realization of his many failures.

Seven times during the last twenty years, elaborate expeditions have set out under way to scale Mt. Everest, the peak of which is nearest to the stars of all the spots on earth. Seven times the intrepid adventurers have exhausted every effort and themselves, have emptied every bag of tricks known to man, yet the uppermost reach of the Himalayas remains untouched by human feet.

The world has watched with much interest, and in certain quarters with much excitement, the latest enterprise of mountain explorers who went equipped with ingenious paraphernalia, the last word in climbing technique, and the benefit of lessons learned from their predecessors. But the dispatch from the expedition's base in India reports that the attempt has been abandoned, that the climbers admit defeat after reaching a point only 2,000 feet short of the peak, which is nearly six miles above sea level.

That is not the end of the story. The weakness of man in the face of the elements is admitted. But the greatness of man is measured not so much by what he actually does as by his aspirations, his dreams, his courage. An eighth expedition will be in preparation one of these days. That goes without saying.

CHEAPER AND BETTER

Traffic safety campaigns invariably make use of death and accident figures as their chief weapon, since the conservation of life is our first consideration. The agencies most active in fighting to cut down the number of accidents in city streets and country highways are thinking in terms of human life. The safeguarding of personal and public property remains a secondary consideration but it is one which cannot be neglected.

Perhaps it was this thought which promoted the plea of a prominent researcher in traffic problems who addressed a national seminar which recently ran for five days in New York.

Dr. Miller McClintock of Yale made an appeal for long-term construction plans for traffic facilities rather than the piecemeal programs usually followed. There can be little doubt that municipalities could reduce expenditures and effect a better traffic system by relinquishing the customary haphazard, now here now there, methods and embarking on a carefully-planned comprehensive traffic program.

Designs now available and successfully applied in many communities show that it is possible to move large volumes of traffic at comparatively high speeds and with almost complete safety through municipal areas otherwise hazardous, inconvenient and congested. These designs are simple and deserve the close study of every community sincerely hopeful of solving its particular traffic problems.

A big league umpire says night baseball brings new problems in its line. How far, for instance, can one let a game go before calling it on account of daylight?

Backstage, she's very natural and uses no makeup at all.

Her great-grandmother was the original Mrs. John Drew, who came from England when she was five, and lived most of her life in Philadelphia. Her grandparents were Maurice and Georgiana Barrymore. She is the daughter of Ethel Barrymore, the queen of the theatre's current Royal family. Her father was Russell G. Colt.

"Mother is no more finished working than I am, she said. "She closed in 'White Oaks' in New York for a two months' vacation. Then, in September, she starts a Canadian and American tour with 'White Oaks' that will last a year."

Ethel Barrymore has no fancy for easy living. She loves the road. Ethel Colt is like her.

There are 13 members in the company. They travel in a car and station wagon. A truck carries their scenery. They do their own work. The young men shift scenes, handle the lights and so on. The women, and that goes for the Barrymore princess, keep the wardrobe, press the entire cast's dresses and suits; do the sewing.

"We don't play any of the big theatres. We can't play union theatres. Our boys act and shift scenes. Some are apprentice actors."

On the road, they usually sleep in homes vacant for the summer. "We get the newly-married daughter's bed, or the sons bed while he's in Europe," she said, "and then a good cup of coffee from a kind mother."

The Jitney Players are solvent now, but not rich. She, herself, lives on the Jitney scale.

She sings, but there's a big bone in her nose that causes her trouble. "I'll have that fixed," she said. "People think I've got adenoids."

The Barrymores never write each other. "I have not had a letter from mother since I was 12," said Ethel the younger. "But mother calls me and telegraphs."

inspected many mission hospitals filled with Chinese wounded.

Explaining that the invaluable work of these missionaries did not pass unnoticed, Madame Chiang said that Chinese who formerly criticized the efforts of foreign missionaries in China and looked slightly upon them are now completely won over by the indisputable sacrifices and achievements under fire of the Christian workers.

So appreciated was the unselfishness of the missionaries, who have suffered untold hardships in voluntarily remaining at their posts, that the Generalissimo found it possible to gain unanimous approval for lifting the restriction against the inclusion of courses on Christianity in mission schools. This ban was laid down during the rising days of the Nationalist Government at Nanking.

Under it, missionaries were free to carry out their work and attempt to gain Christian converts, but such courses were not permitted in schools operated by Americans and Europeans. However, henceforth the teaching of religious subjects in registered missionary schools will be a regular part of the institutions' curricula, announced Madame Chiang.

First Aid Saves Many a Life

Missionary circles, overjoyed at this newly-won concession, declare that the Christian influence has spread increasingly throughout China with amazing rapidity since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese hostilities.

Particularly notable, assert the missionaries, is the intense interest in Christianity of the Chinese army, whose unprecedentedly large demand for Bibles is the main cause for the fact the Bible stocks in Central China are nearing complete exhaustion.

"And they list her HOUSEWIFE"

On census report, or tax return, she may be listed only "housewife," while her husband bears the more definite title of "lawyer," or "doctor," or "storekeeper."

But housewife hardly does this wife and mother justice. She is the modern Jill-of-all-trades. Her job includes being dietician, interior decorator, costume designer, gardener, chauffeur — not to mention educator and health authority.

How does she get away with it? She is informed! Just as her husband depends upon business news in this paper, she finds in the advertising pages the latest facts and price quotations on all the materials needed for her various jobs.

Food for the family? Butcher and grocer answer on these pages. . . Curtains, spring dresses for mother and daughter, slip covers? Department store and specialty shop are ready. She has preferences about fuels and milk, dental creams and even motor oil — all determined by her persistent, intelligent reading of advertisements.

That's why, when she is termed officially "housewife," she can run six jobs instead of one, and have time left over for amusement and relaxation. (The advertisements help her here too.)

A distinctly "different" type of musical drama is heralded in "Joy of Living," new musical comedy with Irene Dunne and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and with new Jerome Kern melodies woven into the sprightly plot, playing today at the Bristol Theatre.

The story deals with a stormy romance between Miss Dunne, a popular musical comedy star whose huge income is lavished on her selfish family, and Fairbanks, a self-confident young man, who has disinherited his rich relatives to become a sort of sea vagabond, who preaches a doctrine of attaining happiness by doing what you want to do.

Believing his duty lies in letting her parents and her sister have their own way, and in working to the limit of her endurance in order to satisfy their rapacious demands, Miss Dunne quarrels violently with Fairbanks when he urges her to throw her family overboard and learn to enjoy herself. And his unconventional efforts to convince her make for delightful complications.

HELP THE CHILDREN BY LETTING THEM SHARE RESPONSIBILITY

By Miss Edna Stephany
(Home Economics Representative)

Children may find real joy in daily vacation tasks if they can have a share in making the household plans.

Gone is the day when the mother does everything. Working partnerships can be formed with the young members of the family, being sure that they have an understanding of the situation and a share in the planning.

If there are several children in the family it is easier than if there is only one, since the children may take turns with dishwashing, dusting and bed making. It is well for boys as well as girls to share in these responsibilities when possible and they should never be made to feel that such tasks are feminine. Helping around the house is a real advantage to the young boy who goes to camp.

Perhaps it is well to permit children to let down completely the first week after school closes. No special work or recreation should be planned. Everyone should just relax and rest. A week of idleness is plenty and the children themselves will feel the need of an ordered existence.

When children make their own rules and schedules they usually work out most satisfactorily. There should be definite hours for arising and for going to bed just as there are during school days, since regularity is one of the rules of health. Bedtime may be a little later during vacation days.

Children's free time should be theirs to use as they plan and should not be filled with extra chores at a last minute's notice. This may happen occasionally but should not be made a practice.

Other duties with which children might assist include emptying wastebaskets, shaking small rugs, watering plants, arranging flowers, and answering the phone. Caring for the lawn and garden is a summer-time chore for the older children.

Young helpers enjoy system and there is no surer way of securing cooperation, then to have a definite plan. Children will reap a great deal of benefit from such a spirit of co-operation and vacation days will be turned into days of joy as well as days of accomplishment.

The Rohm and Haas team remained unbeaten in the Bristol Twilight League by winning its seventh consecutive game of the second half last evening on the Maple Beach diamond. St. Ann's A. A. was the victim with the final score being 5-1. The Superior-Grundy contest was called off because of wet grounds.

It was the diminutive red-headed twirler, "Reds" Gallagher who turned in the hill victory for the men of Andy Pfaffenrath. Gallagher appeared in excellent shape as he set back the first half champions with four hits and out of the 15 outs, set down ten via the strikeout route, an average of two per inning.

Gallagher had a bad start and seemed headed for the showers in the first frame when Dougherty reached base on an error and after Thompson went out, Ihrig drew a pass and Choma was hit with a pitched ball to load the sacks. Gallagher errored on Hughes' grounder and Dougherty crossed. Here "Reds" was on the spot but he threw the third strike past Palowez and did the same act on Tony Angelo.

On the slab at the start for St. Ann's was Mink Warner but it just wasn't Warner's night. He got by the first handily but ran into a bunch of trouble in the second and Snake Why-no was called in to the rescue after five runners trekked across home plate. Why-no did a remarkable job of pinch-pitching but it was a lost cause.

St. Ann's played better ball afield than the second half leaders, not committing an error while three were chalked up against the chemical workers with Dougherty having two and Oppman the other.

Gallagher and Gige Ritter had two hits each to lead the winners with the stick.

Student Peace Service Unit Busy in Quakertown

QUAKERTOWN, July 22—The Student Peace Service Unit, here, under censorship of the local Rotary Club, is commencing its third week of work. The group is composed of Dale Brown, of Yale Divinity School, from Kansas; Charles Swift, of Haverford College, from Delaware; and Creighton Lacy, of Swarthmore College, from China.

The purpose of the organization, which is backed by the American Friends Service Committee in Philadelphia, is to stimulate an understanding of the factors at home and abroad leading this country toward war, an active interest in the problems which face every American community, and a constructive program of peace in which every individual plays an active part.

Members of the unit have spoken before various churches and young people's societies, the Rotary Club, the Richmond Grange, and other organizations, and are scheduled to address the American Legion, Kiwanis and other service clubs. Any churches or other groups in Perkaskie or Sellersville or the neighborhood which would like to have the Peace Unit participate in a program during the summer are asked to address the team at the Richmond Friends School in Quakertown.

The Quakertown Student Peace Unit is but one of approximately two dozen similar groups scattered over the United States. These student volunteers, each of whom was asked to raise $100 to cover his expenses, attended one of several training institutes to study the principle issues of peace and war and international relations.

IRON STOMACHS!

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — Alcohol, which has a tendency to upset digestion, is also capable of protecting imbibers against food poisoning. This was concluded by Dr. James B. McNaught of Stanford hospital at Palo Alto, who found during the aftermath of a party several non-imbibers were critically ill from toothpick sausages, which were insufficiently cooked. Heavy drinkers who ate the sausages showed no ill effects, however.

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Thirteen garages to house equipment of the highway department will be constructed throughout Pennsylvania with W. P. A. and state funds, according to Secretary of Highways Roy E. Brownmiller.

Total cost of construction on all garages will be $2,000, representing $1,100,000 of state funds and $900,000 of federal funds. Philadelphia will get a new $150,000 building to replace the rented quarters used at present here.

119 GOLFERS ENTER AMATEUR TOURNAMENT

HERSHEY, July 22—One hundred and nineteen golfers have entered the Pennsylvania Public Golfers' Association Amateur Championship Tournament which begins over the links of the Hershey Park Golf Club, Friday, and ends on Saturday. There will be a qualifying round of 36 holes, the tournament being 72 holes medal play with one-half the field to qualify for the championship.

Last year's Public Links Champion, Carl F. Kaufman of the South Park Golf Club will not defend his title, due to illness.

Thirteen clubs will be represented in the tournament, the largest delegation coming from the Radnor Golf Club of Philadelphia; the second largest from the Marble Hall Golf Club of Philadelphia, and the third largest from the Schenley Park Golf Club of Pittsburgh, with the North Philadelphia Golf Club closely following.

The clubs represented include the Marble Hall Golf Club, Radnor Golf Club, North Philadelphia Golf Club, Cobbs Creek Golf Club, and Holmesburg Golf Club of Philadelphia; Schenley Park Golf Club and the South Park Golf Club of Pittsburgh; Riverside Golf Club of Reading; Wyoming Valley Golf Club of Wilkes-Barre; Overlook Golf Club of Lancaster; Warnings Golf Club of Harrisburg; Hershey Park Golf Club of Hershey; and Valley Forge Golf Club of King of Prussia.

There are several other clubs that E. C. Nigg, Jr., secretary of the organization, expects to be included in the tournament. He says that there is increased interest in this season's tournament in the team competition for the J. Griffith Boardman trophy which will be closely contested for by Radnor, Holmesburg, North Philadelphia, Overbrook, Marble Hall, and Schenley Park.

In this tournament there will be three consolation events on Saturday, the first one for one-half of the field of those who do not qualify for the championship, second for one-half of the remainder of the field, and the third event for the remainder.

The prizes are the John B. Kelly trophy which must be won three times for permanent possession and the J. Griffith Boardman team trophy which also must be won three times for permanent possession. In the latter contest gold medals will be awarded to the members of the winning four-man team and silver medals to the runner-up four-man team. Trophies will also be awarded to the winner of the championship, runner-up and third and to the medalist and runner-up. There will also be trophies to the winner and runner-up in the consolation events.

The Association will be the host to the officers and contestants of the tournament at a dinner on Friday night at the Hershey Park Golf Club House.

Previous to Kaufmann winning the tournament, George Bradley of the Main Line Open Golf Club of Philadelphia was the winner. The first champion was Frank Strafaci of the Marine Club of Brooklyn who is no longer eligible to play as only Pennsylvanians are now admitted to play.

PIPE WORKINGS

BUCHANAN, Mich. — (INS) — The "TD" marking on the bowls of clay pipes is now clarified through the curiosity of John C. Birdsell. Birdsell found a pipe in an Indian village near here with the letters "TD" encircled by 13 stars. Ambitious research disclosed that shortly after the Revolution, a Scotchman, Thomas Duncan, made a pipe for Indian trade, inscribed with his initials and 13 stars for the original colonies. The Indians liked the pipes so well that they would buy only those marked "TD" and so other manufacturers adopted the marking.

BAER BELIEVED TO HAVE INSIDE TRACK TO LOUIS

By Anthony J. Pugliese
I. N. S. Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 22—(INS)—With Joe Louis ruling the heavyweight situation by so wide a margin that it appears he'll be up there for about a decade, the chief problem at the present time is to find him opposition from a lack-lustre field headed by Max Baer.

Some observers still feel Louis is no super fighter, but just a very good youngster who rose to the crest over the prostrate forms of a most inferior class of heavyweight.

But the fact remains that Louis has dynamite loaded in both fists, and while he displays defensive weaknesses occasionally, don't all boxers get tagged?

From all appearances despite announcement by Joe's manager, Julian Black that Louis won't fight again this year—the Brown Bomber will hook up with an opponent to be selected by Uncle Mike Jacobs, the promoter who brought back the million dollar gate to the fistie world.

It probably will be Max Baer, unless that bout is shunted aside to San Francisco during the 1939 World's Fair. The fight grapevine has Baer and Louis meeting in New York in September.

In connection with this the question might be asked:

"Who would put it on the line to see a repetition of the knockout Louis dished out to Baer, who ducked for cover as soon as the opening bell rang?"

That first fight, in September, 1935, drew 83,000 fans who paid up, including movies and radio rights, over $1,000,000.

Although it is a fantastic to believe Louis and Baer would draw that figure again in New York, strange things happen in the sports world. A sports fan has a horribly poor memory, and finds himself trooping through the turnstiles for what he often feels will be a poor exhibition. But he loves it just the same.

The picture of a cringing Baer, with both hands covering a puffed and scarred face as Louis put over rights and lefts to the head at will, lasts in mind of those who witnessed the slaughter.

On the other hand, Baer is at least as good as the other heavies near the top—Tony Galento, the No. 2 ranking star according to the N. B. A. is hardly a match for Joe, although "Two-Ton" Tony is fearless and has a terrific wallop. Tommy Farr, the Welshman, went the route with Joe, but who would give him a look-in to repeat the performance?

And Bob Pastor, the New York nominee who took to the bicycle and stayed in the same ring with Louis for 10 rounds? Bob has a long way to go to be in Joe's class, but he may furnish cannon fodder for the champion, who insists on activity.

Baer has the inside track for another shot at Louis, and he furnishes enough color to compensate for lack of ability. Max talks, thinks, eats and sleeps a good fight. He's a popular battler sheerly because of his talk.

And he has incentive to make a comeback to the top, although he won't do it at Louis' expense. A wife and baby have settled somewhat the talkative playboy Broadway knew when he was champion.
